Due to the risk of injury to the animals, I do not sharpen blades with broken or bent teeth.

I also do not sharpen generic, off-brand clipper blades. The steel in these cheap blades is too soft to sharpen well, doesn't hold a sharp edge for very long, and the springs and sockets are weak and don't reliably hold the proper tension or position.

Brands that are usually worth re-sharpening include: AGS, Andis, Artero, Buchelli, Buttercut (Geib), Heiniger, Lister, Oster, Premier, Wahl, Zolitta, and a few others.

For any damaged or worn out blade sets that cannot be sharpened, do you want them:

Returned to you

Left with me for recycling (any usable parts are kept to use for free replacement parts, not trashed)

A5 detachable blade set, regular width                      $10    Quantity: _____

A5 detachable blade set, wide width                              $11    Quantity: _____

(such as T-84, blocking, wide #10)

Wahl 5-in-1 adjustable blade set (not the mini)              $15    Quantity: _____

D blades (lever adjustable)                                      $8      Quantity: _____

FREE Repairs: For all A-5 animal clipper blades, I replace any damaged or worn springs, sockets, guides, and any missing screws at no charge. For Wahl 5-in-1 adjustable animal clipper blades (not the Arco mini), I will replace any broken plastic parts involving the plastic platform, along with replacing the steel cutter blade. (Wahl is the only 5-in-1 brand that sells replacement parts.)

Shipping Instructions

Please package your blades very carefully. If you don't have a clipper blade shipping box, wrap each blade set separately, so metal doesn't touch metal and the teeth are well protected. Add enough packaging inside the box to prevent the blades from shifting around. Make sure there is enough packing material between and around your blades to protect them in case the box is dropped.

I do not recommend using the USPS small flat rate boxes, as the cardboard is very weak and crushes easily. I do recommend obtaining adequate insurance.
